

BATTLE OVER PADDED PAY- ROLLS RAGES

Treasurer Stelle Re- leases Some Pay Checks Today

BULLETIN

Springfield, Ill., April 2—(AP)—W. Emery Lancaster, chairman of the civil service commission, today formally demanded that Treasurer John Stelle "forthwith and without delay" issue salary checks to civil service employees who haven't been paid in the Democratic controversy over charges of payroll padding.

Declaring the withholding of checks is a violation of the law, Lancaster declared that if his "friendly demand" was refused he would take steps to force payment.

F. Lynden Smith, campaign manager for Governor Horner, announced he was requesting Attorney General Otto Kerner personally to give an opinion on the legality of Stelle's action in refusing to pay most of the approximately 32,000 employees under the governor's jurisdiction.

Stelle, a political enemy of the governor, also has asked Kerner for an opinion on the proper procedure.

Lancaster said he was ready to subpoena members of Stelle's office before the civil service commission and would start court action if satisfactory explanations are not given.

Springfield, Ill., April 2—(AP)—F. Lynden Smith, Governor Horner's campaign manager, today was given a "free hand" to act for the administration in attempting to force Treasurer John Stelle to release the April 1 pay checks for approximately 32,000 code department employees.

Cancelling plans for a trip to Chicago, Smith said a mandamus suit was under consideration as he arranged conferences with other supporters of the governor's campaign for re-nomination.

"I just talked to Governor Horner by telephone," Smith announced. "He gave me a free hand to handle it my own way. I am going to confer with several officials before deciding what action to take. A mandamus suit is under consideration."

Stelle and Auditor Edward J. Barrett, supporting the Kelly-Nash anti-Horner ticket in the April 14 primary, held up the administration's payroll and charged the governor has padded it with the names of three thousand political workers.

May Seek Mandamus
A mandamus suit, if decided upon, would be started against Stelle and Barrett in Sangamon county Circuit court.

Denying he was "playing politics," Stelle exhibited an affidavit which he said was proof of the charges of payroll padding by the governor.

The treasurer said seven or eight payrolls were released this morning, with checks issued to the National Guard, Farmers' Institute, normal schools and Legislative Reference Bureau. He did not name the others.

Stelle said he would like to know if Horner "knows the names and addresses of the men who have called my home and my office threatening physical and political violence." He declared four calls were received.

The affidavit, signed by Walter Groves of Macoupin county, said he was paid $100 during March by the agricultural department and $80.60 by the department of mines and minerals, but did not do any work for the latter office.

Referring to the governor, Stelle asked: "Am I to ignore the plain and obvious padding and thereby become a party to this wrongdoing by aiding and abetting him in disgorging moneys of the state to pay his padded payrolls?"

Cites Further "Proof"
As examples of alleged "padding," the treasurer said Marion J. Snyder, Horner campaign manager in Champaign county, drew $200 monthly during January and February from the highway department and $600 for back pay. He also said Dixie Mason, a clerk at Champaign, was placed on the waterway payroll last month as "inspector of polluted waters."

Stelle said he planned to make public a comparison of the Governor's March payroll and that of January and February and a year ago.

The Treasurer's statement continued: "W. Emery Lancaster, chairman of the Illinois Civil Service Commission, came to the Capitol from his home in Quincy. He said he would examine data assembled by his office and if it verified facts indicated by early reports, would demand payment for 8,000 civil service employees affected."

23,000 Unpaid

Springfield, Ill., April 2—(AP)—Most of the approximately 32,000 code department employees whose state pay checks were held up are part-time workers for the division of highways.

F. Lynden Smith, business manager for the division of highways and Horner campaign manager, today said they numbered 25,000 and are "being used to repair and maintain the highways as is customary at this time of year after a severe winter."

The highway division has 2,593 permanent employees.

With some payrolls already released, accurate information was not available on just how many state employees were unpaid. Estimates for some of the offices included: finance department, 1,463; agriculture, 644; health, 200; waterways, 118; labor, 450; conservation, 18.

MEN INVOLVING TWO GIRLS HELD ON BOND TODAY

Chicago, April 2—(AP)—Harold Blasius, 37-year-old Waukegan, Ill., aving merchant, and Frank E. Bates, 28, Chicago, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each today by Judge Mathew D. Hartigan in felony court on charges involving two Chemung, Ill., girls.

The charges were preferred by juvenile authorities in behalf of Violet Eckdahl, 13, and her sister, Bernetta, 15.

The authorities presented testimony that Blasius picked up the two girls in his automobile as they were running away from home on March 16 and drove them to Dubuque, Iowa, where he met Bates. The four then returned to Chicago where an apartment was rented for the girls on the south side, the court was told.

The men were accused of taking the girls later to a south side hotel, where the clerk became suspicious and notified South Chicago police.

Blasius was arrested near the girls' apartment Sunday and Bates was seized the next day.

Both defendants waived examination when arraigned today.

Highway Engineers Heard Experienced Veteran Last Night

H. A. Wagner of Chicago, past president and present director of the American Association of Engineers, addressed a group of engineers from Dixon and surrounding cities last evening at the local highway office. Mr. Wagner, who is 72 years of age, has worked as a mining engineer in five continents.

He told many interesting stories of his engineering experiences. However, he was primarily interested in presenting an outline of the accomplishments of the American Association of Engineers, a national engineering society organized in 1914 for the purpose of maintaining high standards in the engineering profession and providing social security to the engineers throughout the nation by encouragement of the enactment of registration and other beneficial laws for qualified engineers.

Hsinking, Manchoukuo, April 2.—Unless the Outer Mongolian government "takes immediate steps to terminate all kinds of provocations against Manchoukuo's frontiers, the relations of the two countries are threatened with the most serious state of Manchoukuo's contingency," the Japanese warned today.

The Manchoukuo foreign minister, Chang Yen-Ching, telegraphed this protest to Premier Amor at Ulan Bator (Urga), capital of Outer Mongolia, newly allied to Soviet Russia under a mutual assistance pact.

The Manchoukuo note alleged that a battle fought Tuesday on the disputed frontiers between Manchoukuo and Outer Mongolia was clearly a case of Mongol aggression.

SEEK CLARIFICATION

Tokyo, April 2—(AP)—The Japanese government pressed Lieutenant Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, its ambassador and garrison commander-in-chief in Manchoukuo, today for speed clarification of the situation arising on the border of Soviet-protected Outer Mongolia.

Despite a telegram from Premier Koki Hirota, however, Hsinking, capital of Manchoukuo, remained silent on the outcome, casualties and forces involved in the battle reported in Soviet advices to have been waged Tuesday in Outer Mongolia.

The Japanese public still was ignorant of the reported clash, except for the charge of an unexpected Mongol aggression on Manchoukuo, set forth yesterday in a Hsinking communique by the Japanese general headquarters.

Reported Bombing
The Tokyo press published only this communique on the border conflict, asserting 12 Outer Mongolian airplanes had bombed a Japanese-Manchoukuo frontier guard north of Tavlan and within Manchoukuo territory.

Aged Paw Paw Man Died this Morning

(Telegraph Special Service)
Paw Paw, April 2—Leonard Craddock, 85 years old, passed away this morning at 7 o'clock at his home about six miles east of Dixon on the Lincoln highway. The drivers escaped uninjured.

Clarence Smith of Niagara, Wis., was driving east and Glenn A. Vought of Santa Rosa, Calif., was west bound, driving a new sedan, when the latter turned out to pass a truck and collided head on with the Smith machine. The front ends of both cars were considerably damaged and two tow trucks were required to pull them apart before they could be removed from the scene. State Highway Officer Edward Mahan was called to the scene of the collision and directed the removal of the two wrecked machines to local garages.

A big truck, owned by the Hawkeye Trucking Co., of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and driven by H. E. Sewees of that city, en route from Chicago to Cedar Rapids, turned over at the Weishar corner in Ashton this morning. The driver escaped injury.

Joseph Rottier, 318 Third street, driving west on the Lincoln Highway last night about 10 o'clock applied the brakes on his car as he approached an east bound truck, driven by Melvin Earl of Erie, crashing into the truck. The Dixon man's car skidded on the snow covered slippery paving, and the machine was slightly damaged. There was no damage to the truck.

Fear 40 Met Death in Southeastern Wind and Rain Storms this Morn

South Georgia Hit the Hardest; Scores Were Injured

Cordele, Ga., April 2—(AP)—Spring wind and rain storms killed an estimated forty persons in the southeast today, and caused more than $1,000,000 property damage, with the major loss centered at this south Georgia city.

"At least thirty-three were killed in Cordele," City Manager John Brown said, "eight white persons and twenty-five negroes."

Rescue agencies swung into action immediately, proceeding to the scene by train and over rain-drenched highways.

Seven storm deaths were reported elsewhere in Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina.

A new baseball stadium, dedicated only yesterday amid shouts and cheers of a throng, was converted into a hospital to take care of those unable to find room at other Cordele hospitals.

Guardians Assist
R. L. Deke, an undertaker, said seven bodies had been taken from splintered homes.

"Ambulances, trucks and other motor vehicles are being pressed into service to bring in the dead, injured and dying."

"From the appearance of the mangled victims, it is amazing that the death toll is as low as it has been."

Two infantry companies and five doctors of the Georgia National Guard were dispatched to Cordele by orders of Governor Eugene Talmadge to provide for the refugees and aid the injured.

Besides the number estimated by Brown to have been killed here, other deaths were reported as follows:

Lee county, Whitefield county, Terrell county, one each; Wilkes county, two; near Hampton, S. C., one; and Gordo, Ala., one.

YOUTH, 22, HELD FOR MURDER OF FARMER WIDOW

Edwardsville, Ill., April 2—(AP)—Julius Kuehse, 22-year-old son of a tenant farmer, was held today after confessing, State's Attorney Lester Geers said, that he had bludgeoned to death Mrs. Charlotte Pilz, wealthy 40-year-old widow, on her 400-acre farm near here.

Geers quoted Kuehse as saying he killed Mrs. Pilz in a dispute that occurred as they walked toward a patch of land where he had planned to plant potatoes. Kuehse said Mrs. Pilz started the dispute by wrongly accusing him of having killed her dog and threatening him with arrest.

Authorities took from a cesspool the instruments they assert were used in the killing—a fence picket broken in three places, a pair of blood-stained gloves and two burlap sacks used while dragging the body into a patch of knee-high clover stubble to hide it.

Authorities arrested Kuehse soon after the body was discovered Sunday. They said he and Mrs. Pilz had had a number of disputes.

Woman Who Made Home For Civil War Waifs, Dead

Chicago, April 2—(AP)—A project in home-making for 30 Civil War orphans, started 71 years ago by the Chicago home for the friendless, was at an end today with the death of Miss Lottie Somers, 76.

She was the last known survivor of a group of Arkansas refugee children, made parentless by the war between the states, who arrived at the home on March 22, 1865. Miss Somers was 6 years old then.

Most of the other orphans grew up and left, but Miss Somers, who had a crippled hand and was frail, remained until she died yesterday.

WPA Worker Fined $200 For Cruelty To Baby Daughter

Chicago, April 2—(AP)—Leon W. Graham, 28 year old WPA worker, started today to work out a $200 fine imposed after his wife charged he choked their baby girl to stop her crying and put red pepper on her hands to cure her of sucking her thumb.

"I couldn't sleep nights. The kid was howling all the time," Graham said when confronted by Mrs. Mae Graham, 19, before Judge Leon Edelman yesterday in the court of domestic relations. The baby Beverly Mae, is 7 months old.

Unable to pay the fine, Graham was sent to the house of correction.

Custodian Dixon Postoffice Lucky on All Fools Day

Walter Parker, assistant custodian at the post office, considers himself lucky. Yesterday afternoon after he had cashed a check for $28, he started home and upon his arrival, discovered that the entire amount was missing from his trousers pocket. He began to retrace his steps and reported his loss to Patrolman Harry Fisher.

About 5 o'clock, Albert Fordyce, member of the fire department, who was on duty at the desk in the police station, observed William Hanson running along in the street in front of the city building. Fordyce went out to investigate and found Hanson picking up one, five and ten dollar bills which were being swept about the street by the strong wind. The fireman joined the round up and when they had completed their chase, they checked up one ten dollar bill, three fives and three ones, a total of $28. Patrolman Fisher arrived at the station shortly after and reported Parker's loss and the entire amount was shortly afterward returned to the loser.

Crash May Foil Wager Payment

Taylorville, Ill., April 2—(AP)—An automobile accident may upset the plans of John Munzert, St. Louis tavern owner, to ride a bicycle from St. Louis to Chicago in 72 hours on a wager.

Munzert and two friends, Joseph Doran, a constable, and Fritz Steurer, also of St. Louis, were treated for slight injuries last night at St. Vincent's hospital following a collision with a car near here.

Munzert, starting at noon, had ridden his bicycle from the St. Louis city hall to a short distance south of here. He became tired and entered the car in which his friends were trailing him and which crashed into a car that shortly before had collided with a truck.

The wager on the trip to Chicago was made after a 12-mile trip last week, the first time he had been on a bicycle in 20 years.

Lady Godiva on a Sea Horse and Similar Entries in Festival of States Parade Arouse Protests

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 2—(AP)—Despite protests of church officials, St. Petersburg was all in a jitter today over the prospect that nude models would be among the main attractions in the parade of tomorrow's Festival of the States.

Parade Chairman William T. Davis, former inspector of New York police, has resolutely declined to say yes, no, or maybe in reply to church resolutions but an examination of the official list of floats showed such entries as "Lady Godiva on a Sea Horse" had not been scratched.

Committees from several large churches were said to be ready to take stern measures if the floats are of a nature to "corrupt the morals of youth," as they said has been the case in past festival processions.

Defenders of the parade insist that with few exceptions nudity on the floats is no greater than that found on beaches here any busy afternoon.

TRUCK DRIVER HELD HERE ON STATE CHARGES

A Case of Sioux City, Iowa, driver for the Holcroft Transfer Co., was arrested about 11:30 last night as he entered Rochelle from the west with a truck loaded with butter and eggs, Chicago bound. State Highway Officer Edward Mahan of this city, making the arrest, Case was brought back to Dixon and lodged in the county jail.

Lawrence Selover of this city reported to the state officer shortly after 10 o'clock, of having his truck sideswiped at the Crawford's Maples corner, east of Dixon on the Lincoln Highway by an east bound truck belonging to the Holcroft company. Selover was returning from Chicago, his truck loaded with groceries.

Officer Mahan started east and overtook the Iowa truck just before it reached Rochelle and placed the driver under arrest for leaving the scene of an accident. Case stated that he felt the impact and looked back but not seeing the west bound truck stop, he proceeded on his way. The entire side of the Iowa truck was torn off when Case was stopped at Rochelle. Selover's truck was badly damaged, but proceeded to Dixon. Charges of leaving the scene of an accident will be preferred against the Iowa truck driver this afternoon.

More Employees Of Governor Horner Get Into Trouble

Chicago, April 2—(AP)—Five state department heads appointed by Gov. Henry Horner stood debarred today by a Cook county Circuit court order from soliciting or collecting campaign funds from civil service employees.

On petition of a group of civil service workers who alleged they were threatened with dismissal unless they contributed a total of $200,000 toward Gov. Horner's re-nomination campaign, Judge Stanley H. Klarowski issued the restraining order yesterday.

It was directed against A. L. Bowen, director of public welfare; Dr. Edward F. Dombroski, managing officer of the Chicago state hospital at Danmaring; Walter M. McLaughlin, director of the state department of agriculture; Axel C. Ahlman and John Burke, officials of the grain division, state department of agriculture.

Their attorney, Francis X. Busch, said he would appeal quickly to the Appellate court.

Gov. Hoffman Called Into Jury's Probe

Hauptmann's Execution May Be Delayed Until Sunday

By DALE HARRISON
(Copyright, 1936, by The AP)
Trenton, N. J., April 2—The Mercer county grand jury, which saved Bruno Richard Hauptmann's life Tuesday night, called Gov. Harold G. Hoffman to testify today, and the belief grew swiftly that Hauptmann again would escape the electric chair tomorrow night.

The jury, investigating charges that Paul H. Wendel rather than Hauptmann committed the crime of the Sourland hills for which Hauptmann has been sentenced to die, also arranged to hear Attorney General David T. Wilentz, the Hauptmann prosecutor. There were unconfirmed reports that Dr. John F. Condon, the Lindbergh ransom intermediary, also would be called.

The jury plunged into its renewed consideration of the Wendel case while charges were popping that Gov. Hoffman was blocking efforts to probe an alleged assault on the caretaker at the Lindbergh baby kidnapping—yesterday.

Hoffman Says Nothing
The governor emerged from the grand jury room at noon. He had been before the jury for an hour and fifteen minutes. He had no comment to offer on his appearance.

A police guard hustled him through the crowd jamming the corridor, got him into an elevator and he was rushed to the street. Again his guard hurried him

The bottle was evidently washed up during the recent high water after having been in the water seven months.

SCARLET FEVER MORE COMMON THAN BEFORE

Springfield, Ill., April 2—(AP)—Except for last year, scarlet fever is now more prevalent in Illinois than in any other year since records have been kept. Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state director of public health, said today.

Cases reported during the first three months this year total 10,107, compared with 12,922 cases in 1935, the director said. For the week ending March 30, 931 new cases were reported, while there were 1,360 cases for the same period a year ago.

"Inoculation is effective and practicable as a preventive but must be undertaken well in advance of exposure to infection to insure protection," Dr. Jirka declared. "Five doses given at weekly intervals are required to give immunity."

“B” SPIRITUAL HEALTH

By Joseph Fort Newton
BEFORE you drop the subject of mental medicine, a reader asks, “let me add the testimony of Dr. Jung, one of the greatest of living psychiatrists, as something to keep in mind and ponder.”

“During the past thirty years, he tells us, people from all civilized lands have consulted him. He has treated hundreds, if not thousands, of people whose nerves and souls were a jangle and awry.”

“Who were they? The larger number,” he says, “being Protestants, a smaller number Jews, and not more than five or six believing Catholics.” It is extraordinary, and will bear thinking about betimes.

“Among all his patients in the second half of life—that is, those over thirty-five—there has not been one whose problem, in the last resort, was not that of finding a religious outlook on life, which they had either never found, or having found, had lost it.”

“It is safe to say, he adds, that every one of them fell ill because he had lost that which the living religions of every age have given their followers, and none has been healed who did not regain it.”

“To me this is a most impressive statement, and it lets a lot of light into the jittery state of the world. Unless we can regain a vital, unifying spiritual faith, there is not much hope of a way out.”

“Faith in God does have something to do with the stomach,” said a woman in a George Eliot story. And not only with the stomach, but with the whole body, and still more with the health of the mind.”

My reader hits the nail on the head. Too many people are trying vainly to be healthy and live happily without any thought, or faith, as to the meaning of life as a whole; and it cannot be done.

Life is a big, rich complex thing, but a meaningless life is a mean, petty thing, and high and humble duties alike seem futile. The physical factors are important, but the spiritual fact is equally vital.

To live a wholesome life, we must have some faith, or philosophy, as to the whole of life, and put our whole self into it.

Too Much Responsibility Should Not Burden Little Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

“Children should be happy because they have no responsibilities,” Mrs. White answered the doctor's question. The doctor had asked her why she thought Betty should be more cheerful.

“She is as cross as two sticks, won't eat her meals and she is getting so thin I had to come and see you,” Mrs. White said. And after the doctor had put a few queries, ended up with, “We do everything in the world for her. Fortunately we are rather well fixed and she has more advantages than most of the other children she plays with. Anyway, all children should be happy because they have no responsibility. It is natural for them to be happy.”

“Could you tell me approximately just what Betty does in a day? We'll take tomorrow, Tuesday. What will she do all day? Put in everything?”

Too Many Advantages

“Tuesday,” Mrs. White concentrated. “Well, she will get up and take a bath and get dressed and go to school. Breakfast, of course, such as she eats. Then she comes home for lunch. She goes back and gets home at a quarter to four. No, on Tuesday she shops at Miss Worth's and gets a shampoo and wave. She loves curly hair and hers is so straight, she does, because I told Mrs. Terry she wouldn't be late for dancing class again. She has the children twice a week from five to six. She tried four o'clock, but they couldn't get there.”

“Does Betty like dancing?”

“Pretty well, but she needs it. She is so awkward. The only thing I have against it is that it interferes with her practicing. She does lessons after dinner, but I think it high time they cut out night work. It doesn't give the children time for anything else. She goes to bed at nine.”

“How about Wednesday?”

“Well, every Wednesday she has to have the band on her teeth looked after. And Dr. Brown is so far away. Then afterward I have Mrs. Price coming to take her measure for new dresses. Betty's a pretty lucky child, Doctor. I buy her the best.”

More Full Days

“Thursday?”

“Well, I don't know. It's Annie's day out, but I would like to take Betty and have her picture taken for her father's birthday. Either that or Saturday. Saturday is about the only time I can get hold of Betty. Even then it's hard because she has another dancing lesson and her music lesson, too. And usually I have to talk her out of a movie.”

“What a pity Betty isn't a poor little girl,” said the doctor. “One who doesn't have to live up to advantages—who just ‘grows up’ like Topsy. She would be so much happier. What was it you said about responsibility?”

“Children haven't any.”

“One of us is wrong then, because I don't agree. Ease some of her burdens and she'll be a different child.”

Beautiful Double Wedding Of Polo Sisters Last Night

A double wedding of much interest in Polo and vicinity took place last evening when Miss Anna Margaret Toms, graduate of the Polo high school of 1933, and daughter of Mrs. Earl Toms, of Polo, and Leslie Lowman, son of Mrs. Louis Zimmerman of Polo were married at the parsonage of the Lutheran minister in Forreston, the Rev. Andrew Johnson, at 8 o'clock. And Miss Ruth Eileen Toms, sister of the above bride, was married at the same time to Ronald Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Williams of Maryland, Ill. Anna Margaret was a lovely gown in national blue pebble crepe and Ruth Eileen was a lovely gown in white. They both carried flowers. The single ring ceremony was used. Attending both couples were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith and Wayne Weaver of Polo. Amelia Earhart Talks at DeKalb On Ocean Flight

De Kalb, Ill., April 2.—Most of them won't admit it, and some of them don't realize it, but the reason fliers fly is that they can't resist the lure of the beauty of the sky.

That is what Amelia Earhart told 1,000 persons who gathered at the Northern Illinois State Teachers college auditorium last night to hear her discuss her experiences in flying across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

The famous woman flier wore a full-length ginger-brown dress with a large white tie. She appeared here under the auspices of the Town Girls' club, of which Mary Terwilliger is president, and was introduced by Miss Blanche Davidson, dean of women at the college.

No Reason For Flight

She told of the beauty of the noon, the clouds, and the rising sun as seen from an airplane and how this beauty brought fliers to the sky. She said she had no reason for making her Pacific flight in 1932 and had not deliberately attempted to establish a record. She made it merely because she had always wanted to, she said.

“Two-thirds of the success of any expedition depends upon thorough preparation and for that reason, I had the best technicians and mechanics working on my plane for weeks before I started my Pacific flight,” she said.

“When I first started thinking about the flight, I believed that I had about one chance in ten of making it successfully. But I gave up worrying two weeks before I started and after the takeoff at Honolulu I knew the most difficult part of the trip was over.

Last Hour Longest

In her six-passenger plane, she carried 520 gallons of gasoline and the loaded ship weighed 8,000 pounds. She brought along chocolate bars, malted milk tablets, tomato juice, and canteens of water and hot chocolate to sustain her during the trip. She had a rubber boat, flares that burn on the water, a signal balloon with a red handkerchief tied to it, and a gun which discharged green and red flares to be used in the event that she was forced to land in the Pacific.

The last hour of her flight seemed the longest, she said, and she saw “many bits of land in the ocean that should be annexed to California.”

Telling of the safety of modern air travel, she said that statistics of airplane accidents show that “the average person could fly until he was 128 years old without an accident,” and advised her listeners not to wait until they reached that age before making an airplane trip.

The apple crop of Canada for 1935 is estimated at 4,069,400 barrels.

ACT IN HASTE; LEARN AT LEISURE

None of us knows what the supreme court of the United States will say about unemployment insurance. Such legislation as the NRA was palpably unconstitutional. Its violation of the constitution could be seen by the naked eye of a person not a lawyer, if that person knew anything of prior holdings of the court. The way of the unemployment insurance is not so clearly charted.

Suddenly all of us decided that because so many of us are out of employment now, we should provide insurance against future situations of the kind. We decided that we must have a law. Some of the states acted in haste and will learn at leisure. Of course, that is one of the advantages of the dual government. We can use willing states as experimental stations. Other states may profit by their experience.

It should be understood that such unemployment insurance as has been devised is not of a kind expected to meet conditions of such a depression as we now are experiencing. Benefits cover periods of only a few months. They would cover a shutdown in a single industry, for instance, that may have been put out of business temporarily by a low tariff and competition from abroad. So, if it appears that such legislation as has been adopted is not constitutional, we have not lost a major offensive against a real depression. It is only a minor one.

As we indicated above, some of the states proceeded with haste because as a people we hastened to fasten upon ourselves all kinds of new-fangled things without first studying them. In Illinois the general assembly decided to study the subject and to proceed more cautiously with an eye upon experiences of other states. One side of the question only has been heard up to this time. As the courts pass upon the questions at issue, we shall hear more.

At hand is the decision of a lower court in Albany, N. Y., in which the New York law was declared unconstitutional. The judge says that industry is not responsible for unemployment, that unemployment is the result of a depression of industry, and he reasons that the burden for unemployment in one industry should not be placed upon the shoulders of another industry.

It should be kept in mind that this decision is only that of a lower court, and that final decision will come from the court of appeals. We publish excerpts from the court's opinion not because they necessarily forecast the final decision for New York, but because they set forth for those interested the weaknesses of the theory upon which the law is based as the judge sees them. We haven't had that side before the public.

"It is my opinion," the judge said, "that the compulsory contribution by an employer to be paid as an unemployment insurance benefit to an employee of another is without validity under our system of government and constitutes unwarranted, unreasonable and arbitrary transfer of the property of one to another in violation of the due process clause of the constitution."

"I do not agree with the premise that unemployment is caused by the omission of any legal duty or the commission of any wrong by industry as such or that the burden to maintain a condition of employment is one that industry assumes and must discharge."

"Industry lives and thrives on employment of its workers. It dries up and dies when its condition precludes the employment of workers, and when it is so burdened by exactions that its condition demands such preclusion then loss and misfortune follow both to it and its employees."

NO PLACE FOR HIM

Senator Lewis of Illinois has a bill pending in congress providing for creation of a federal foreign trade board.

"If my bill passes, and I think it will, I will do all in my power to have Mr. Peek appointed as head of the board," said the senator, referring to George N. Peek, who resigned after President Roosevelt negotiated the Canadian trade concessions that are expected to injure the farmers of the United States. "If the bill passes, and I think it will, I will do all in my power to have Mr. Peek appointed as head of the board, and I know of no other person better fitted for such a position."

After years of effort put forth in interest of farmers, Mr. Peek was called into the department of agriculture by President Roosevelt, and farmers of the country were gratified with his selection. As the mask of the democratic party was withdrawn and the stark face of socialism was revealed, Mr. Peek was edged out of his place by the Tugwells. Roosevelt, however, was afraid to turn him loose into the corn belt, so he made a place for him in the department of state, where negotiations are carried on with other countries for trade treaties.

The Canadian pact was a slap in his face. Mr. Peek displayed his manhood and independence by shedding the whole mess of contradiction and inconsistency and returning to his former role and personality.

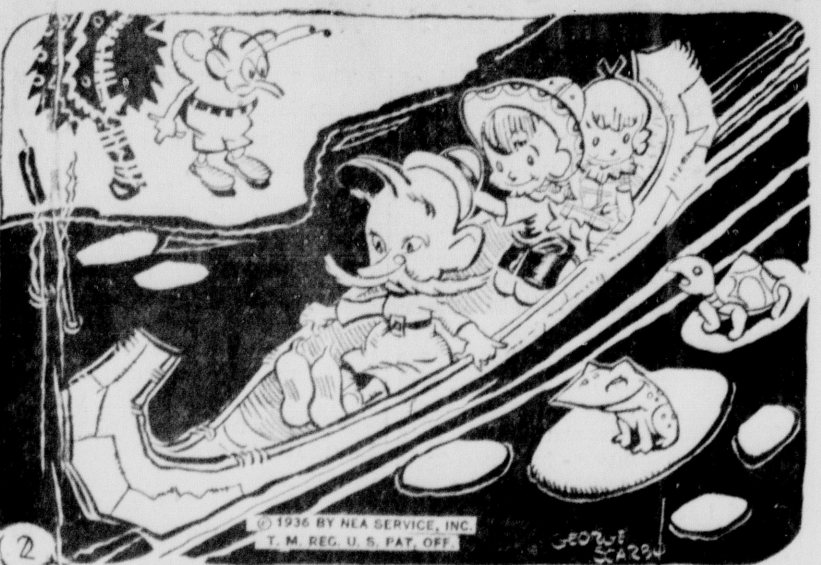

Undoubtedly, with the campaign coming on apace, President Roosevelt would like to have Mr. Peek taken out of circulation and gagged after the most approved New Deal fashions. Everything that happens in administration circles now is made to accord with the fact that election soon is to take place.

This administration is no place for a man of the type of George N. Peek. If he depended upon a Washington job for a meal ticket, we could overlook acceptance of an invitation to return.

If George Peek returns to take the sop that is being thrown out to him, he isn't the George Peek we think he is.

The old prospector said, "Well, 'Now, let's get started. All of you tots, I think that we'll have lots and lots of fun being together. I've been lonesome, in the past."

"No real friends have I ever found whom I'd be glad to take around. For many days to come, I hope this new friendship will last."

"Of course it will," said Scouty. "Gee, we're just as thrilled as you can be because we've come across you. Now, where will you seek some gold?"

"If we can help you find a lot, 'twill make you happy, like as not." "You bet," replied the man. "You see I'm getting rather old."

"I'd like to find enough to quit this looking 'round, and rest a bit. Somewhere around this country I am sure there's gold galore."

"Of course it's buried underground, so that is where it will be found. I'm hoping that we'll have some luck, when we start to explore."

A New Way to Dissipate Savings

PART I

By WALTER E. SPAHR

Secretary, Economists' National Committee on Monetary Policy

The President's new plan providing for the taxation of undistributed corporate income involves unusually serious questions affecting the welfare of every man, woman and child in this country.

If you think this proposal does not touch you, the remainder of this article may convince you that you are wrong. If you already realize the seriousness of the President's proposal, you will find in the following analysis answers to the questions I should like to have every reader consider.

First, a word about the proposal. The President recommended, among other things, to Congress on March 3 that a heavy tax be placed upon the undistributed income of corporations (their future surpluses) to force a distribution of these surpluses in the form of dividends to stockholders. The tax recently proposed by Treasury officials ranges from 27 to 40 per cent. The distributed surpluses are to be subject to the income tax rates applicable to individuals, and are to replace the present taxes on corporations—the corporate income tax, the excess profits tax, and the capital stock tax—provided the surplus is all distributed. If it is not, it is distributed both the corporation and the individual would be taxed on the surplus. Thus the proposal does not necessarily involve a substitution of one tax for another, as popularly supposed, but may involve two taxes—and exceedingly heavy ones at that.

The general theory lying behind this proposal is that corporation surpluses are withheld from the mass of stockholders by a few rich stockholders, that the purchasing power of the great mass of stockholders is unjustly reduced, that these small stockholders would spend the money which corporations now save, and that the government is being deprived of taxes it otherwise would get. If these surpluses were distributed

Let me explain to the reader, not versed in taxation, just what all this means. Then I wish to ask some questions for you to consider.

This program means that the government thinks spending is preferable to saving. My observation is that I never have known an individual or a nation to experience any serious difficulty by over-saving. I have seen many individuals and several nations ruined by too much spending.

This program means that the Administration considers it preferable for the government to receive a large share of these undistributed earnings in the form of taxes rather than to permit corporations to keep and employ surpluses.

More on this subject tomorrow.

KUHN STRESSED NEED OF SOLID MEN IN OFFICE

Batavia Attorney Gave Address Here Wednesday P. M.

J. Paul Kuhn of Batavia, one of the Republican candidates for the governorship of Illinois, addressed an attentive audience in the Circuit Court room at the court house yesterday afternoon on the issues of the campaign and his platform. The speaker is quite well known throughout Lee county, and on his visit to Dixon was accompanied by State Senator Charles Baker of Monroe Center. Attorney Kuhn was a former member of the Illinois commerce commission and from his experience, cited numerous instances of waste and careless expenditure by the state government.

"During the next four years, Illinois will not need an entertainer to occupy the chair of the chief executive of the state, but a two-fisted business man," the speaker said. "If it becomes necessary to expend the sum of a half million dollars to become a candidate for the office of governor of this state, then it has removed the qualifications which men who are candidates for this office should possess. The time has arrived for the voters of Illinois to hesitate for a moment and sum up the situation, and not to sell their right for there are at least some things in life today upon which you cannot place a price tag."

Cited Extravagance
The speaker cited several instances of extravagance and waste un-

Lawyer Wendel's Son Heard by Jury

The Mercer County, N. J., Grand Jury which requested a stay of execution for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, had previously heard, among other witnesses, Paul H. Wendel, whose father, former Attorney Paul H. Wendel of Trenton, first allegedly had confessed, then denied, the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby. Wendel's son here is shown (at left) being interviewed at the Mercer County courthouse.

der the present and previous administrations and said:

"Extravagance and waste started before the present Democratic administration came into power, but under the present administration has continued to rise to a high peak, instead of being lessened as the voters were promised. Both Republicans and Democrats have allowed themselves to be sold down the river."

"Illinois today presents to some man, the opportunity for the greatest service in human kind since the Civil War, a man with courage and determination, who is free of the control of special interest. This application might also be made to the Federal government. I believe that Chicago and Cook county should not be permitted to dictate to the candidate for governor should be and to pick candidates for state offices who will represent Cook county interests."

"The state's business should be run out of consideration for the burden of the tax payer, that burden which has been increasing and is entirely too great. It cannot be said, as it has in the past, that this burden will be lessened some time soon, but this situation demands immediate action."

In referring to the cost of state government the candidate told his listeners that there was no common-sense reason why it should cost five times the amount to operate the state at the present time over the war-time period. The only method whereby taxes may be reduced, he added, is to reduce the cost of the government of Illinois. In this connection he charged that of his own knowledge, investigators on the state commerce commission were receiving salaries of $100 per day for work for which the salary should be no larger than $10 per day.

Other high points in his talk called for the repeal of the state sales tax law, the preservation of Illinois markets for Illinois products so far as consistent with good business and good government, proper administration of necessary relief free from politics, the selection of a state board instead of a Chicago board to control the milk prices in Chicago. In conclusion, he stated that during the past eight days a great change had taken place in Illinois and that at the present time, he was one of the two principal contestants for the office of governor.

DAILY HEALTH

THE 1936 TUBERCULOSIS CAMPAIGN: II

What are the symptoms of tuberculosis?

First, there is fatigue—getting tired easily just as if you were dragging a load after you. That should always arouse your suspicion.

Then there's the cold that hangs on. It's a sort of chest cold, sometimes described as a bronchitis, and there's a lot of coughing that goes with it. Sometimes one brings up yellow, thick expectoration, and sometimes this is streaked or tinged with blood. Such a chest cold, especially if it has been hanging on for two weeks or more, deserves looking into. It may be a bronchitis; then again it may not.

Loss of weight and indigestion should also arouse suspicion. These are common enough symptoms but they may foreshadow tuberculosis. The loss of weight is apparently without good and sufficient cause. The indigestion is of a vague sort—one just doesn't have any taste for food, nor relish it when eaten.

Then of course there is the classical symptom suggesting tuberculosis, namely, blood spitting. Comparatively few cases of tuberculosis in the early stages are diagnosed by this symptom. However, when expectoration is coughed up which is blood-streaked or blood-tinged, or even when the sputum contains some blood, one must suspect tuberculosis.

Fever and night sweats should arouse suspicion. Pains in the chest are but rarely associated with early tuberculosis. Pleurisy, particularly if it is of the wet variety, calls for an inquiry as to whether it is not due to tuberculosis. A thorough examination of the chest begins with a careful history taking and ends with an X-ray and the necessary follow-up and re-examination later.

These are some of the most important signs to arouse your suspicion. If you witness them, play safe and let your doctor decide.

The best hope in tuberculosis lies in taking the disease in hand early.

LITTLE TURNS PROFESSIONAL DROPS TITLES

Had 31 Victories In Title Match Competition

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer, Augusta, Ga., April 2.—(AP)—While a deluge washed out the first round of the Augusta national tournament, William Lawson Little, Jr., king of the world's amateurs for the past two years, emerged today as the latest notable recruit to the ranks of professional golf.

In making the big jump that took two famous championship predecessors, Robert T. Jones, Jr., and George Von Elm, from the ranks of the simon-pures six years ago, Little ended at the age of only 25 an amateur career that dazzled two continents in 1934 and 1935.

With a world record streak of 31 consecutive victories in title match play, the San Francisco "siege gun" captured the American and British crowns twice in succession. His decision not only means the relinquishment of both championships, at the peak of his career, but removes his chance to captain this year's American Walker Cup team.

Happy at Decision.

With his bride, the former Dorothy Hurd of Chicago, nodding her smiling agreement, Little declared today he was "happy in making the decision that offers the chance to get down to work."

The details have yet to be worked out but he will shortly sign contracts, he said, for a long term golf promotion venture, sponsored by a national sporting goods concern.

Little will be associated with Bob Jones in work which the Georgian described as "educational." Present plans call for Little to lead a touring party which will give exhibitions, show motion pictures and otherwise seek to create wider interest in golf playing. Jones will act only in an advisory capacity. The aim is to reach public courses, schools and colleges with the promotional program.

Will Take Chances.

The Californian also will take his chances with other professionals in open competition, for prize money. He will join the "money brigade" here for the first time, and will compete in the United States open at Baltusrol, N. J., in June. If possible, he will go to England to try again for the British open title. He was fourth last year in the British open after conquering the amateur field.

Although a "pro" for all practical purposes, Little is not eligible now for membership in the Professional Golfers' Association and probably won't be. Requirements for membership call for a three-year "apprenticeship," employment by a club as a teacher and part proprietorship, at least, in a golf shop.

CARD MANAGER IS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Columbus, Ga., April 2.—(AP)—Painful injuries kept Branch Rickey vice president and general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, in a local hospital following an automobile-truck collision near here yesterday.

A short time before Rickey's mishap, George L. Parker, National League umpire suffered a broken leg and a fractured collar bone in an auto-truck crash near Hardeeville, S. C.

The creator of the Cardinals' "chain store" system of baseball farms received severe head lacerations and a badly wrenched back.

Doctors said he was "doing nicely" but indicated he probably would have to remain in a hospital for a week.

The accident in which Parker was injured occurred near the Georgia-South Carolina line as the umpire was driving northward alone. In both accidents rainy weather and poor visibility were factors.

Parker was taken to a Savannah hospital.

RAIN HINDERS BEGINNING OF AMATEUR MEET

Sarazen Among Many Greats Entered at Augusta

Augusta, Ga., April 2.—(AP)—America's leading professionals and amateurs, assembled here for the $5,000 75-hole medal-play Augusta national invitation golf tournament, remained idle today as rain delayed the start until Friday.

Officials said 18 holes probably will be played tomorrow.

Meanwhile, sentiment and recent sub-par firing by Bobby Jones, the retired king of the fairways, made him co-favorite in the betting odds along with Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., at odds of 8 to 1 against the field. Fifty-four golfers are entered.

Jones Rates High.

The favor with which the public holds Jones, who clipped 16 strokes from par on his last four trips around the Augusta course he helped design was put down at $1,000, top prize in the sweepstakes auction last night.

Picard, recent winner of the North and South open, was next to Jones at a bid of $950.

Gene Sarazen was third at $775 and was listed at 10-1 in the betting along with W. Lawson Little, Jr.

Others bringing high prices in the auction included:

Johnny Revolta $600 Horton Smith, Little and Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., $550; Ed Dudley and Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., $525; Harry Cooper of Chicago, $500; Craig Wood and Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh, $400; Ky Laf-foon of Chicago $325; Billy Burke of Cleveland, $375; Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., $450 and Walter Hagen of Detroit, $300.

KIEFER AFTER NEW SWIMMING RECORD TODAY

Chicago, April 2.—(AP)—Adolph Kiefer, Chicago's high school boy stroke artist, will go after another record to add to his already huge list tonight while little Katy Rawls of Miami Beach, Fla., swims for her second 1936 title, in the second night of competition for men's and women's senior national A. A. U. championships at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

The best Kiefer could do would be to better one of his own marks, for he holds or has improved every back stroke figure in the book. With the competition expected from Danny Zehr of Northwestern University, a mark to replace the world standard of 1:36.9, listed for Al Vande Weighe of Newark, N. J., is the prospect. Kiefer has frequently beaten the listed mark.

Miss Rawls, limited because of a recent illness to chances at two crowns instead of the three she won last year, will seek to retain her title in the 100 yard breast stroke, and is expected to do it handily. In the other events of the big program, Peter Pick of the New York A. C. will try for a second straight championship in the 100 yard free style.

POLL FAVORS CARDS TO WIN LEAGUE FLAG

Pirates, Giants Given Many Outside Chances

New York, April 2.—(AP)—A two club race for the National League pennant, with the St. Louis Cardinals dethroning the Chicago Cubs by a narrow margin, was forecast today by the nation's baseball experts casting ballots in The Associated Press' tenth annual poll.

In as close a battle of ballots as the poll ever has seen, 43 of the 98 sports editors and baseball writers who participated cast their first-place ballots for the "Gas-House Gang" led by the inimitable Deans and bolstered by the off-season acquisition of LeRoy (Bud) Parmelee, fast ball right-hander.

The Cubs, who won the 1935 flag with a spectacular 21-game winning streak in the closing month of the campaign, were placed second despite the fact they will get away from the barrier two weeks hence with virtually the same array that performed so sensationally a year ago.

39 First Place Ballots.

The Cubs received 39 first-place ballots but Charley Grimm's champions can take heart from the fact that the 1935 poll established the Cardinals as favorites and ranked the Cubs no better than third.

As far as the experts are concerned, only two other clubs—the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates—can be considered to have even a remote chance of figuring in the championship this summer. The Giants were given 13 votes for first-place and Pittsburgh, prospective "dark horse" of the campaign, received three.

The Pirates, incidentally, proved to be the toughest club of them all for the poll-participants. Pie Traynor's hopefuls banking on a powerful attack led again by the 1935 batting champion, Floyd (Arky) Vaughn, and improved pitching, were given votes for every position but seventh. The bulk of their ballots, however, were for fourth place and they are ranked there, a notch behind the Giants.

Although Cincinnati's rejuvenated Reds drew strong support, the Brooklyn Dodgers were picked to head the second division.

Philadelphia, although drawing votes for as high as third place, winds up as seventh place nominee in the final tally. Boston, operating under a new name as well as new management, was an overwhelming choice for the cellar.

DUNLAP RATES BIG FAVORITE

Out For His Fifth North and South Amateur Crown

Pinehurst, N. C., April 2.—(AP)—With the quarter-finals at hand, George T. Dunlap, Jr., was heavily favored today to win his fifth title in the North and South amateur golf championship.

Dunlap, who took an easy victory in the second round while most of the others were forced to the home hole or beyond to win, was paired with Richard Tufts of Pinehurst.

Dunlap yesterday defeated Tom Pierce, the Vermont title-holder, 6 and 5, while Tufts eliminated Andrew McNair, of London, England, 2 up.

Other matches today brought together W. E. Stockhausen, of New York and J. B. Ryerson of Cooperstown, N. Y.; Pat Mucci, of Newark, and A. C. Giles of New York; and C. C. Clare of New Haven, Conn., and Art Lynch of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Mucci defeated Bobby Dunkelberger, sensational 16-year-old high point schoolboy who had defeated the veteran Francis Outimet, former national champion, in the first round, Mucci won, 1 up.

MILLS APPOINTED NEW COACH AT ILLINOIS U.

Champaign, Ill., April 2.—(AP)—Douglas R. (Gags) Mills, University of Illinois basketball and football star in 1927, 1928 and 1929 was expected to accept appointment as Illini head basketball coach today.

Mills, freshman football coach and assistant basketball coach during the past season, reserved decision when the position was tendered by George Huff, director of athletics, yesterday.

Saying "I don't want to give up one sport in favor of the other," Mills indicated that he might refuse the new job if it meant relinquishing his football coaching. Huff said,

Here and There In Sports World

New York, April 2.—(AP)—Good luck to Lawson Little, who finally has gone and done it. . . . Ed Wade, who plays basketball for Utah State, will show the east a nifty pair of dogs in the Olympic finals this week-end. . . . He wears a size 14½ shoe and they have to be made to order. . . . Next to Ray Impellitteri, perhaps the hardest name to spell in sports is Al Neiderreiter, who will promote boxing at Ebber's Field this summer. . . . Mickey Walker's name adorns a suds spot on W. 49th street, just across the street from the Garden and only a block from Jack Dempsey's.

Gene Sarazen saying he can't possibly win at Augusta this week recalls the time Wallace Wade went around saying his Duke gridders didn't have a chance against North Carolina. . . . Then went out and knocked the Tar Heels plumb out of the Rose Bowl. . . . Pat Malone is showing signs of a comeback and the Yanks are all steamed up. . . . The Garden's announcement that it has Tony Canzoneri signed for his next title defense has Mike Jacobs wondering how he's going to bag the Ambers bout. . . . But all along W. 49th street—called Jacobs' Beach by Frankie Graham in the Sun—They're betting even money Michael does it.

That story about the kid who got a try-out with the Tigers, then had his career cut short by a leg ailment and wanted an AP picture to prove he really went to camp, was a honey. . . . When asked if he was going to Birmingham to try to sign Ben Chapman, Col. Jake Ruppert gruffly replied: "I'm not interested in Chapman." . . . And he wasn't April fooling. . . . Since going to work as Mike Jacobs' press agent, Francis Albertanti, than whom there is none whomer, has put on 20 pounds. . . . Gossips say Jack Dempsey may quit his $25,000 job fronting for a restaurant.

Prexy Gerry Nugent of the Phillies struck a new note for Quaker-town when he said Curt Davis wasn't for sale at any price. . . . Joe Moore of the Giants can play ball in any league for our dough. . . . Joe McCarthy can't make up his mind whether Myril Hoag is a pitcher or an outfielder. . . . Some of the roving war correspondents think the Deans may flop this year—but neglect to tell why. . . . The Garden wants somebody to fight John Henry Lewis. . . . Maxey Rosenbloom would get the spot but he's headed for Australia.

NEWS FROM BASEBALL CAMPS

Associated Press Sports Writers Tell of Activities of Major League Stars and Rookies.

By The Associated Press
Birmingham, Ala.—Ben Chapman, last of the Yankee holdouts, had another chance today to put his name on the dotted line before Joe McCarthy leads the major leaguers out of Alabama. Ben failed to get anywhere in a talk with McCarthy yesterday.

Sebring, Fla.—Although the dead-line for reducing clubs to 23 players is still six weeks away Casey Stengel has cut his Brooklyn Dodgers within two of that number. He'll probably drop a pitcher and an infielder, but he'll also have to decide whether to keep Johnny Cooney and Oscar Eckhardt or turn them back to the minors. Cooney will know his answer by April 15, the deadline set by Indianapolis, while Eckhardt's trial runs to June 30.

Sarasota, Fla.—Lon Warneke, ace of the Cubs' mound staff, was expected to go the route against the Boston Red Sox today.

Tyler, Tex.—Jimmy Dykes sent his White Sox against the Pirates again today with Monty Stratton, who showed promise at the end of the 1935 season, and Les Tietje slated to share the mound duties. Cy Blanton and Guy Bush were listed as the Pirates' probable pitchers.

Greenwood, Miss.—Oral Hildebrand and Johnny Allen were named to take the mound for Cleveland against the Giants here today in the ninth game of their exhibition series. Allen has recovered from an attack of influenza.

Tyler, Tex.—Brother Lloyd, the little poison of the Waner family, began his limbering up exercises after recovering from a long siege of pneumonia. Although a little underweight, Lloyd declared he was feeling fine.

Kissimmee, Fla.—Double killings are getting to be almost a habit with the Phillies. They pulled three double plays against the Cubs yesterday and the same number the day before.

Macon, Ga.—The Cincinnati Reds were hoping for fair skies after yesterday's rain-drenched defeat as they faced the Senators in the third of their four-game series. Tony Freitas was manager Chuck Dressen's mound selection.

Knoxville—Pinky Higgins' three home runs Tuesday are still the talk of the Athletics. Although a holdout for several weeks after the training season opened, Higgins has convinced his teammates that his bat will be poison this year.

Greenwood, Miss.—Bill Terry now expects his New York Giants really to start rolling. Hank Lieber snapped out of a batting slump yesterday by driving out two doubles. Hank's fielding is nothing to shout about, however.

Macon, Ga.—Bucky Harris was smiling today, he had reason to be happy for Earl Whitehill and Jack Russell turned in the best job the Washington mound staff has displayed this season when the Senators blanked the Reds 8-0 yesterday. Only one Cincy hitter got as far as second.

Lakeland, Fla.—With Hank Greenberg on hand to hold down first base, the Detroit Tigers have no more use for Rudy York and so have shipped the promising rookie to Milwaukee, subject to recall on 24 hours notice. Outfield-

Jacksonville, Fla.—Ed Moriarty's pinch hit went over the fence here yesterday in the Bees game with Jacksonville the fourth time a ball has ever cleared the barrier, which is 440 feet from home plate.
Atlanta, Ga.—The Cardinals are worrying mainly about their hitting—or lack of it. Leaving out the pitchers, only five of the 16 players who are being considered as regulars, are hitting above the .300 mark. Paul Dean was scheduled to make his 1936 debut today against the Atlanta Crackers.

"From Ants to Elephants"
Channing Beebe of the Northwest Assembly Association gave the students of P. H. S. a very interesting and thrilling assembly program on Wednesday morning when he showed some colored slides of Africa and told of his experiences on that continent.

Mr. Beebe's talk was well named "From Ants to Elephants" because his most harrowing experiences were with these two forms of life, the most intelligent of insects and the most intelligent of animals. Mr. Beebe's field of presentation added to the experiences he told kept most of the students on the edges of their chairs for a good part of the time. In addition to the slides which were shown to illustrate his talk he also had a few exhibits with him, such as animal skins.

Preceding the main feature of the program some of the students of the Junior High School gave a short cut from the operetta "Hansel and Gretel" which they were to present Friday evening, March 27.

Mr. Moser made an announcement of the basketball game, faculty vs. students, which is to be held the night of the Athletic Association benefit, Tuesday, March 31.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills at your druggist.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

GOD OF THE GODS

LOOKING down from his throne on Mt. Olympus, Zeus, god of the gods, noticed young Phrygia, son of Tros, hunting in the woods. The great thunder-burling god needed a cup-bearer and thought how suitable Phrygia would be for the task. So, converting his body into that of a huge eagle, Zeus swooped down to earth, picked up Phrygia in his talons and bore him back to Olympus. This episode in the life of Zeus is pictured on the 25 drachmae value of Greece's new issue of mythological stamps.

Zeus had power to transform himself into any form that he desired. Once, in the shape of a bull, he carried off Europa, and often, in other forms, he brought to the peak of Olympus new amours who excited the jealousy of his wife, Hera. When she defied him, once, he suspended her in the clouds.

For there was no disobeying the authority of this god. He punished severely all who rebelled, as he did Prometheus by condemning him to 10,000 years of torture on the rocks of the Caucasus, for stealing fire from Olympus.

REPORTED PEACE NEGOTIATIONS ON IN EAST AFRICA

While Ethiopian and Italian Armies Prepare for Battle

BULLETIN
Rome, April 2—(AP)—Best informed sources said today Marshal Pietro Badoglio had reported the result of first contacts made with emissaries of Emperor Haile Selassie for negotiating peace outside the League of Nations.

These sources said Badoglio informed Alessandro Lessona, under-secretary of state for colonies, now with the high command in East Africa of these negotiations.

Details as to when the contacts were made and the results were not immediately made known.

(Copyright, 1936, By The Associated Press)

Asmara, Eritrea, April 1—(By wireless to Rome, April 2)—Italy's northern army and the personal troops of Emperor Haile Selassie maneuvered carefully today toward what was considered the impending death struggle of the war in Ethiopia.

The little rainy season, which had already begun locally in various sectors of the northern front, finally set in with characteristic African viciousness, but military authorities asserted the heavy downpour would fail to retard the operations.

The Ethiopian emperor withdrew his forces to the heights overlooking Lake Ashangi, 30 miles south of Amba Alaji, to await the second phase of the decisive encounter—expected to be an attack by the army of Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

Emperor Haile Selassie himself launched what was believed to be the opening move of the climactic struggle on the northern front yesterday, throwing 20,000 of the finest troops of his bodyguard at the left Italian flank, just north of Lake Ashangi.

The Italian command estimated that 7,000 Ethiopians were killed in the fighting from dawn to dusk before the imperial bodyguard retreated. Unofficial reports said 16 Italian officers, 300 white soldiers of the Fascist first army corps and 745 native Eritrean Askari were killed.

SITUATION TANGLED

By The Associated Press
The Italo-Ethiopian war and the Locarno treaty, although originating far apart in time and geography, reached a point of entanglement today in which causes and effects appeared practically inextricable.

Great Britain and Italy are the guarantors of the Locarno treaty under which Germany, France and Belgium promised not to attack each other.

When Reichsfuehrer Hitler moved troops into the demilitarized Rhineland, France alleged that he had broken the Locarno pact and the League of Nations council agreed with this interpretation. France called upon Great Britain and Italy to force Germany to withdraw these troops.

But now Italian forces have conquered Ethiopian territory near Lake Tana, the source of the Nile and, consequently of major importance to Great Britain.

British Are Nervous

Although Premier Mussolini of Italy has informed the British from time to time that he had no intention of interfering with the water supply of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and Egypt, the British are nervous.

Fascist sources in Rome said a noticeable turn for the worse in the relations between Italy and Great Britain had occurred in recent days. One informed source said the tenseness was almost as severe as last September when the British home fleet steamed into the Mediterranean.

This same source indicated that France was tending to become more severe against Italy.

France in Dilemma

It was obvious that France was in a dilemma as to foreign policy for, with Great Britain and Italy unsympathetic to each other, there was little likelihood of cooperation between these two guarantors of the Locarno pact.

At the same time, the British government appeared to be lending a sympathetic ear to Hitler's proposals for a new European security system—although the French government indicated that these proposals were in no way acceptable to France.

Authorities in the League of Nations expressed the belief that whether Hitler's suggestions would be adopted depended on how much confidence other powers had in his promises.

CONGRESSMEN TO GET INTO DEMOCRATIC BATTLE

But Administration in Washington Insists it is Neutral

Washington, April 2—(AP)—Although the administration was represented as neutral in Illinois' Horner vs. Nash-Kelly scrap, there were signs today that some downstate Democratic congressmen were ready—or almost so—to enter the fray.

One such downstate said he might make an announcement during the day. Another said he, too, probably would make his position clear after hearing from several county leaders.

Reports from such local leaders played a big part in the discussions here, Michael L. Igoe, federal district attorney at Chicago, said after conferences with most of the Illinois Democratic representatives that their reports from the county leaders indicated Governor Horner would carry downstate in his race for renomination.

Igoe, who has been here several days, added he had learned more about the downstate situation on his Washington visit than he had back in Illinois. He discussed the fight between Horner and the Nash-Kelly Chicago organization with Senator James Hamilton Lewis and practically every Democratic House member from the state.

The district attorney also conferred with Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic national committee, quoting that party leader afterwards as saying the administration would keep out of the primary contest. Both Horner and Herman Bundesen, the Nash-Kelly candidate for the nomination, have pledged support of President Roosevelt.

Igoe's report to Farley on the state political situation was a closely guarded secret. The district attorney maintained he was "strictly neutral" in the fight and that his discussions of politics with Farley and others were incidental to the transaction of departmental business.

He continued, however, a round of conferences known to involve the political situation with Secretary Ickes on his calling list for tomorrow.

May Change Picture

The expected announcements of the downstate representatives would make a decided change in the political picture.

With the exception of the nine Chicago Democratic members, who are affiliated with the Nash-Kelly organization, most of the delegation, faced with primary fights of their own, have sought to stay out of the gubernatorial fight.

Representative LeRoy Adair, Quincy Democrat, who is not a candidate for renomination, is campaigning in his district for Bundesen.

Senator William H. Dieterich also has taken to the stump in favor of the Nash-Kelly candidate. Senator James Hamilton Lewis, a candidate for nomination at the same primary, has maintained a strict neutrality and said today congressional duties probably would prevent his return to Illinois until after the primary.

KNOX PROMISED ENDORSEMENT IN ILLINOIS POLLS

Presidential Candidate
Greatly Cheered by Reports This Week

Moline, Ill., April 2.—(AP)—The assurances of Republican county chairmen that he may expect a strong endorsement from his home state, in the April 14 presidential primary brightened Col. Frank Knox and his campaign route across Illinois today.

The Chicagoan finished a three-day tour of north-central Illinois with a rally here last night. After steering a course through Aurora, Ottawa, Pontiac, Bloomington, Peoria, Galesburg, Kewanee and Rock Island.

Today the Chicago publisher swings downstate, bound for East St. Louis, with three weeks of intensive fence-building behind him. Aside from short excursions out of his Chicago home, it was expected he will center his final 12 days of campaigning in the metropolitan area.

"Illinois Favorite Son"

Hailed on his trips through the state as "Illinois' favorite son," Knox faces a contest in the April 14 primary votes with Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, who begins a brief stump trip next week.

Knox managers were jubilant over the reports received on this week's jaunt. At Kewanee they heard Chairman Oscar B. Peterson of Henry County's Republican organization tell a reception audience "everybody in this territory is for Col. Knox."

Knox was told at a Galesburg luncheon in an introduction by Knox county chairman, Edward H. Blach. "We'll do everything in our power to insure your success."

Townsmen Call on Him

A delegation of Davenport, Ia., Republicans came across the Mississippi river to greet Knox at a Rock Island dinner preceding the Moline rally. It was headed by Merle F. Wells.

Borah went without mention in the final downstate phase of the Knox campaign. Knox aimed his fire instead at the Roosevelt administration's "profligate spending." He charged that the "Roosevelt debts" would burden the nation for 50 years, adding that only political administration of unemployment relief prevents balancing the budget.

After using the built-in writing table to dash off a note to the folks at home, this passenger may wash in a basin supplied with hot and cold water, undress, and either tumble into the lower berth, or mount that light ladder to the upper one. No unnecessary space is wasted, or weight tolerated, aboard the huge German air liner.

There must always be a careful, general inspection before the new air monarch soars into the blue. Here, after a check-up, a workman emerges from a giant rudder of the LZ-129. Other mechanics, in the crew of 40, inspect powerful Diesel engines which, in the four motor gondolas, develop 4200 horsepower (almost twice that of the Graf Zeppelin), to propel the new "Hindenburg" through the sky.

Many Americans soon will view this sight—the new German queen of the sky sailing majestically through the heavens. Largest airship in the world, the LZ-129 is pictured above soaring over Friedrichshafen, Germany, during a recent trial flight. With a gas capacity of 7,000,000 cubic feet, the new air giant is 972 feet long by 162 feet in diameter, and its dead weight is approximately 110 tons.

Seated at the controls in the only man-carrying gondola on the LZ-129 (there are four motor gondolas), Capt. Ernest A. Lehmann apparently is about to give the "cast off" signal to his ground crew, shown holding down the giant ship preparatory to a trial flight over Friedrichshafen, where the craft was built. Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran skipper of the Graf Zeppelin, soon will take command of the "Hindenburg."

Gleaming corridors that would grace an ocean liner lead to passengers' quarters within the vast hull of the LZ-129. Here, one of the 50 passengers accommodated by the airship seeks his room among the 25 double-berthed cabins. Other passageways lead to a luxurious restaurant, a spacious lounge, a writing and reading room, and long promenade decks on which passengers can take their needed exercise.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS INVITES ALL PEOPLE
Text: Luke 14:15-24
International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 5.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

As you approach this lesson you might recall that verse in which the hymn writer described the grace of God.

"Its streams the whole creation reach
So plentiful is the store,
Enough for all, enough for each,
Enough forevermore."

In our teaching and preaching of religion we have not always made the Gospel that broad, and free, and complete. We have tended in one way or another to limit the privileges of grace.

While Jesus was being entertained one of those who sat at the table with Him, speaking out of this sense of limitation, said to Him, "Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the Kingdom of God." This was the occasion for the beautiful story of the great supper in which Jesus puts the Gospel squarely upon a plane that justifies the hymn writer's description of grace.

The parable of the great supper went beyond emphasis upon the largeness and fullness of the invitation, in the suggestion that those who are most directly privileged do not always take advantage of their opportunity. It is not the largeness of the privilege and the greatness of the opportunity, but the act of acceptance and decision that achieves the blessing of religion.

The benevolent Host made great provision in His supper, and sent forth His servant with the invitations, bidding His guests to come. With one consent the invited guests began to make excuses, which were as flimsy as such excuses are apt to be.

The provider of the feast, naturally, was angered and antagonized by these rebuffs. So He said to His servant, "Go out into the streets and lanes and bring hither the poor, and the maimed, the blind and lame."

That was a glorious feast. It brought the things needed to the most needy. There was no question of acceptance where the need and hunger were so keenly felt.

What is the lesson of the story? That God is the great provider, and that His fullness never fills the soul until the soul feels the need of Him.

There might, of course, be an interpretation of the parable that would suggest the primacy of privilege of the chosen people, but it is hardly necessary to give the parable such a narrow interpretation. Even though that may have been its original truth, it surely applies more largely today, and its teaching ought to be one of warning lest being surfeited with the affairs of life and feeling no need, we miss the treasures of grace that God has to bestow.

OPPOSITION TO GET CHANCE TO FLAY TAX PLAN

Washington, April 2.—(AP)—Seeking a speedy windup of hearings on its tax program, the House ways and means committee assembled today to hear opposition testimony from representatives of manufacturing plants.

Dr. Claudius Murchison of New York, president of the cotton textile institute, and James E. Emery, general counsel, and Noel Sargent, statistician, of the national association of manufacturers were at the top of today's witness list.

As several more individuals waited behind them for a chance to place their views on record, Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) said hearings would continue into the evening if that were necessary to clean up the calendar.

He added that the committee had no plans to extend the scope of the hearings on the $799,000,000 tax plan and might conclude them this week because there has been "nothing to show us we are off in the estimates as to how much we will raise."

While new processing taxes have not been removed definitely as a possibility for inclusion in the projected tax bill, the chairman asserted that "nothing has been disclosed that would make us turn to processing taxes."

Such levies were suggested by the president.

Former Baseball Star To Trundle At Indianapolis

Indianapolis, April 2.—(AP)—Everett (Deacon) Scott, who once was the crack shortstop of the American Bowling Congress tournament tonight with the Grace Construction team of Fort Wayne, Ind. Scott is just about as dexterous with the mineralite as he was with the horsehide and he has frequently placed in the A. B. C. prize money.

He is only one of the headlines slated to fire on the maples to-night. He and Frank Carr, who will compete in his 25th A. B. C. classic, will head a delegation of 18 Fort Wayne teams. Other quintets will represent cities in Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin, New York and Pennsylvania.

BOY SCOUTS OF DIXON PREPARE FOR OGLE SHOW

Sixteen Scouts will represent Troop 89, Christian church, at the Merit Badge exposition in Oregon Saturday. Scoutmaster Kenneth Abbott said today. Other Dixon troops are using their spring vacations from school in feverish efforts to arrange their exhibits for the big Lee-Ogle county show.

Troop 89's ticket sales passed the average mark this week and the exhibit on aviation is practically complete. Patrol meetings were held at the separate homes of their leaders Tuesday evening and Scoutmaster Abbott was treated to a pleasant surprise as he journeyed from home to home, where refreshments were served in his honor.

Troop 60, Baptist church, spent the first part of the week arranging

EX-SENATOR LEA GIVEN RELEASE FROM N. C. CELL

Hopes to Regain Former Financial and Political Standing

Raleigh, N. C., April 2.—(AP)—Col. Luke Lea, one time political and financial power in Tennessee who was sent to North Carolina state prison in 1934 on conviction of violating the bank laws, was freed under parole today.

The official parole papers had not arrived, but Warden H. H. Honeycutt called Lea into his office and told him he was released. Lea had an appointment with Gov. Ehringhaus, but the nature of the meeting was not immediately revealed.

After a three-year fight in the courts to avoid serving a six-to-ten year sentence for conspiracy to violate the banking laws, the one-time U. S. Senator entered the state penitentiary May 10, 1934. Today, after nearly two years of prison life, he was a free man.

Given Commendation
The man who climaxed his military career with an unsuccessful attempt to kidnap the German Kaiser after the armistice became a model prisoner here, and Gov. Ehringhaus commended him for his conduct.

Soon after he entered prison Lea was assigned to duty in the prison hospital. There, the governor said in his parole statement, Lea went beyond the requirements of his job and appeared "to have been animated by a desire to be of service to those unfortunate prisoners afflicted with disease" and "rendered unremitting service both night and day."

Lea said he had no plans for the future other than "to earn a livelihood for my family." He will leave Raleigh this afternoon.

Record of Economy Made by Len Small

Under Governor Len Small, the cost per person of running the government of Illinois was lower than that of any of the surrounding states and lower than that of all but four states in the Union—North Carolina, Tennessee, Ohio and Alabama.

These are figures provided by the Department of Commerce of the United States. For 1926, the last year for which the United States furnished this analysis while Gov. Small was in office, the cost of running the state government in Illinois was $6.04 for each person, while the cost in Indiana was $7.94 per person; in Missouri $6.90 per person; in Wisconsin $9.86 per person; in Minnesota $12.34 per person; in Michigan $10.42 per person, and in Iowa $9.03.

For other than adjacent states by way of comparison, it was $12.01 per person in New York, and $14.46 in California.

One bunch of bananas grown in Ecuador contained 10 hands of the elongated fruit, weighed 84½ pounds, and stood 38 inches high.

Chinese laborers in the fourteenth century used sauerkraut to combat beriberi, a disease caused by an excessive rice diet.

PERSIA CLOSES ALL LEGATIONS IN U. S. CITIES

Growing Resentment Over Minister's Arrest Cause

Washington, April 2—Anger which has smoldered in Iran (Persia) since two Maryland traffic policemen arrested the Iranian minister has burst into the open.

Turning a diplomatic cold shoulder to the United States, Iran has closed its legation and consulates in this country. Its diplomats in Washington and consular officers in New York and Chicago have packed up to leave for home.

Persia was hurt, authoritative sources said, because of articles in the American press which were considered disrespectful to the Shah and his country. Apparently, however, the diplomatic reproach was a direct outgrowth of the Maryland incident.

Minister Ghafer Djala was monitoring through Elkton, Md., last October when two policemen stopped his car. They said his chauffeur was speeding.

Minister Handcuffed. After a dispute, the officers handcuffed the minister. He protested to the state department, and subsequently the policemen lost their jobs for violating diplomatic immunity. Secretary Hull apologized, but he also hinted pointedly that foreign diplomats should observe American laws.

Djala, who said he was aware of no law violation, was recalled to Iran in January. He made no secret of the fact that there was displeasure in Teheran over the treatment he had received.

The Persian government sent no minister to succeed him. The legation here has been headed by Hossein Ghods, charge d'affaires.

Not Diplomatic Break. The closing of the offices is not a break in diplomatic relations, because the American legation at Teheran remains open.

It is not the first incident between the two countries. Observers here understand that Persia has never forgotten the demands the United States made when an American vice consul, Major Robert W. Imbrie, was killed in a mob riot in Teheran in 1924.

The United States insisted upon: an apology from Persia; indemnity of $60,000 for the widow; punishment for the persons considered guilty; a guard of honor headed by two generals to accompany the body to the sea coast; a salute of

NEWS of the CHURCHES

BRETHREN CHURCH

A very interesting service was enjoyed at the Brethren pre-Easter service last night, although the attendance was much smaller than usual on account of the blighting snow storm which proved to be more than an "April fool." Rev. Ora Garber of Polo was on the program for the sermon, but due to illness could not be present and a round table discussion was participated in by a large number. The following topics were used with the following speakers after which an interesting discussion was conducted. "A Young Man for Christ," Plus Burgard; "A Community for Christ," Al Reisinger; "A Nation for Christ," Miles McClain; "The Home for Christ," Edward Myers and "The Church for Christ," Parker Barton.

Tonight Rev. D. B. Martin will give the sermon, and Friday night Rev. A. D. Shaffer will be the speaker. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

MISSIONARY WILL PREACH

Rev. Leslie M. Matson, pastor of the Christian church at Princeton and returned missionary from Jamaica, will be the guest preacher at the Fellowship Week service at the First Christian church tonight. Rev. Matson will bring a message from the theme, "Christ Came Ministering." Mrs. Matson will speak to the ladies of the Missionary society at their meeting at the church at four this afternoon and at a scrambled supper at six in which all the missionary organizations will unite.

The blizzard last night cut down the attendance at the service. In view of the adverse weather conditions however, it was good, and all enjoyed the fine sermon delivered by Rev. Harry E. Shiffer, pastor of the Rock Falls Christian church. Harry C. Jones sang a gospel solo entitled "Have Thine Own Way."

Rev. L. V. Lovell, of Polo, will preach at tomorrow night's service.

GOOD NEWS REVIVAL

West Side Church. Wednesday evening, Rev. Hills spoke from the text I John 3:1-5, and he dealt on the subject of being a child of God and the responsibilities of that position.

"We cannot definitely describe the experience of being born into God's Kingdom but when we accept Jesus Christ our lives are changed and we become new creatures. The Spirit works in a wonderful way and just because we cannot describe it that is no reason why we should not believe it. We cannot demands us to love one another, that is not possible humanly speaking, but it can be brought about by the grace of God. We need to know more love in our hearts and lives.

"We are commanded to have the same calling—the high calling of God in Christ Jesus, and I would rather be an Ambassador of the King of Kings than the King of England, and am convinced that the highest calling anyone can have is the high calling of God. There is only one thing that God needs and that is willing hearts. It is not a case of God giving us a chance, but of us giving God a chance."

Thursday night there will be special music furnished by students of Wheaton college. Friday night is Sunday school night, all classes are invited. Rev. Hills subject tonight will be "Worldly Pleasures."

LEN SMALL REAL FRIEND OF VET- ERANS: PROVED

Most citizens are "friends of the War Veterans," but Len Small is the first citizen to meet them with $55,000,000 Illinois soldiers' bonus when they came back from "over there." As Governor of Illinois from 1920 to 1928 he helped the sick, lame and disordered soldier boys who had given their best to make the world "safe for democracy."

Gov. Small was among the foremost leaders in America to start the program of rehabilitation of disabled veterans. He sought and found employment for them and their families. He insisted that the vets be given preference in appointments from the Civil Service lists. He provided free institutional care and free education for the orphans of men or women who served in any of the naval or military forces of the United States.

Friends of the veterans and their needs declare that the only candidate who has a record of achievement to prove his loyalty and service to the veterans' cause is Len Small. For that reason it is predicted that the Kankakee man will receive the greater part of the veterans' support in the April 14th primaries.

U. S. Department of Commerce figures show that 1,797,380 patents were issued in this country from the time records first were kept until 1932.

An "airscape" is a coined word used to describe a picture taken from an airplane. The word may displace the old term, "bird's-eye view."

MILWAUKEE'S MAYOR FACING REAL STRUGGLE

Milwaukee, April 2—(AP)—A mayoral campaign based on the issue of continuing the Socialist administration of Mayor Daniel W. Hoan headed into the home stretch today.

Sheriff Joseph J. Shinnery, Democrat running as a nonpartisan who seeks to unseat Hoan, Socialist mayor for 20 years, in next Tuesday's election, declared:

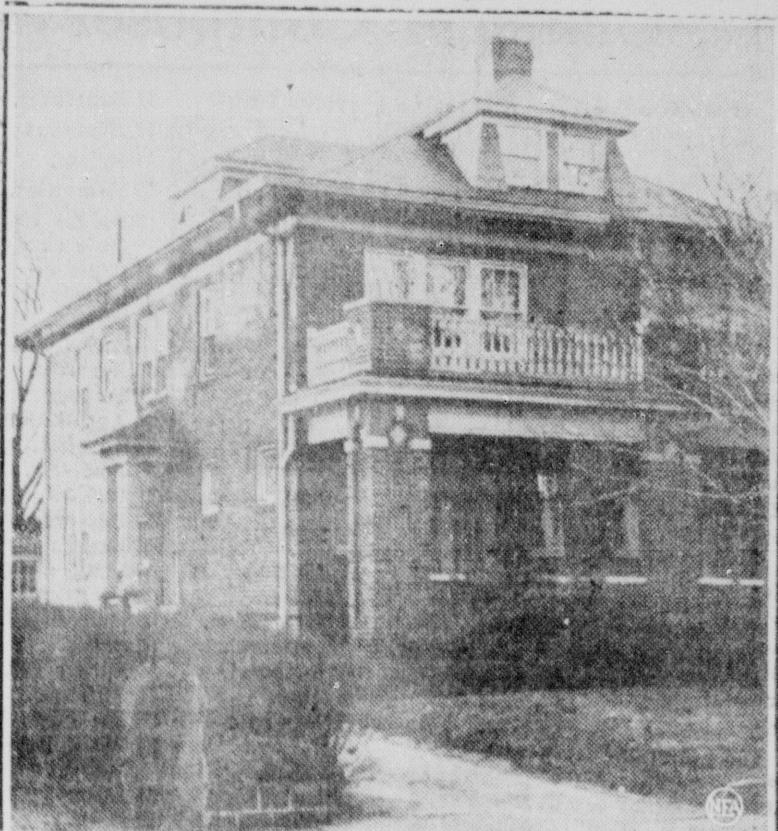

"The issue is Americanism versus Socialism."

Shinnery's supporters denounced Hoan's declaration for public ownership of Milwaukee's electric utility, his "production for use" and "collective commonwealth" proposals and his endorsement of an ordinance empowering the mayor to close factories affected by strikes if violence impends. They charged taxes have become unbearable, that Hoan's labor policies encourage industries to move and that he would have government take over private business.

Hoan defended his administration. He asked what major city could equal Milwaukee's record in public health, safety, general public services, credit and freedom from graft, vice and crime. He asserted an amortization fund was expected to free the city from debt by 1943.

He said the controverted ordinance would discourage strikes. "Never in my administration," he

It was a dramatic eleventh-hour telephone call from Allyn Freeman (above), foreman of the Mercer county, N. J., grand jury, to Principal Keeper Mark O. Kimberling of the New Jersey state prison that won a 48-hour postponement of execution for Bruno Richard Hauptmann. Freeman requested that the execution be deferred pending further investigation into the case of Paul H. Gorgeous

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

TOBY RYAN, 19, looks behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store, she poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARTY HATT, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of a jealous WAITRINE HALL, Toby has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets Marty Hatt and he sends her to BEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Toby registers at the agency, secures work as a model.

At a style show where she is modeling she meets CAROL MARSH, rich and snobbish. She also sees wealthy TIM JAMIESON who has been trying for some time to persuade her to dine with him. Impetuously she agrees.

For a week Tim showers her with attentions and Toby admits to herself that she is falling in love with him. She is surprised one evening when, shortly after their arrival at the fashionable Saville Club, Tim orders her to leave. He tells Toby he is leaving next day for Maryland, to be gone "a few days."

Later Toby learns that Carol Marsh is in Maryland attending a house party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

TOBY spent a sleepless night and awoke with a headache. Harriet was worried about her, but Harriet had to leave for an early appointment. Standing in the doorway, she looked back anxiously.

"You're sure there isn't anything you want?" she asked. "Anything I can get for you?"

"No," Toby said. "I'm going to be all right. I think I feel better already."

She didn't, but she wanted to be alone. After the door had closed on the other girl, Toby pressed her head against the pillow and closed her eyes. If she could sleep, she thought, the pain in her head might stop.

But, before she knew it, she was again going over the arguments she had repeated so often to herself the night before. There was no reason—none at all—to suspect that, just because Tim had gone to Maryland, he was at the house party Carol Marsh was attending.

Then the scene in the Saville Club, that last night she and Tim had spent together, came back—so vividly Toby might have been seeing it all again. Tim's sudden insistence that they should leave, rushing her away almost before she knew what she was about, and the memory of Carol, cool and beautiful in her silver gown, sitting at that table not a dozen feet away.

Had Carol and her friends just arrived? Was that why Tim was in such a hurry to go somewhere else? The thought held infinite torture and Toby tortured herself as women in love before, have done.

She had explained, of course, and she had believed him. Oh, she had wanted to believe him! She wanted to believe him now, but why didn't she hear from him?

WHEN Harriet returned in the afternoon she found her roommate sitting by the window, mending a blouse.

"Why, Toby," Harriet said, "that's my blouse. You shouldn't be doing that!"

"Oh, I saw it lying there and thought I might as well be working at something. It's just about finished."

She held up the blouse for inspection. Toby's stitches were neat and tiny.

"Hm," Harriet said. "Better hobbies were displayed with every class room having its particular outlay of samples of work completed during a school year. Hobbies ranging from bottle, stamps, coins, drawings and scrap books of all kinds were artistically arranged. The local Boy Scouts, Troop 65, which has been recently organized, camped with their display on the stage, and the several articles of woodcraft, knots and literature marks the good work being done under the leadership of Scoutmaster Earl Traubach.

Winners as announced in the various collections were: Stamps, George Richardson, Virginia Mae Ulch, Alma Gantz, and Arthur Eddy. Postmarks, Virginia Mae Ulch, and Cleora Otterbach; Pictures and Printed Matter, Bette Ann Montavon and Virginia Mae Ulch; Matches, Marvin Heiman, and Virginia Mae Ulch; Miscellaneous, Lorraine Grosshans, and Wallace Davis; Finger Prints, Dorothy Eddy and Betty J. July; Adult Collectors, Coins, B. W. Ulch and Wayne Archer; Indian Relics, Ralph Thompson and Ernest Clemmons; Stamps, B. W. Ulch.

In summarization, the question has been asked that while the exhibits are interesting why should a Hobby Show be held. The reason this show is held is to encourage habits of doing something rather than just "loafing around" in the leisure time that every child and adult has allotted. The collections themselves are not so important but the effort put forth and knowledge gained in making such a collection is valuable. The young person who has a hobby has much less time on his hands to do less desirable things. Can you make the Hobby Show more interesting, adults? If so pass your suggestion to the teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilbert, daughter Marlene of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mullen of Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mehlich, Miss Hilda Polisch were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mehlich.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gilmore and family spent Wednesday in Rockford.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Gilmore entertained the following guests at their home Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gilmore and family, DeKalb; Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Jones, daughter, Betty, Rochelle; Mr. and Mrs. John Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gilmore, daughter Dorothy, Mrs. L. D. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Miller.

She deserves it. And, by the way, how about giving me one? I haven't seen you in a con's age. Don't you think it's about time we went down to the old cafeteria where they have the corned beef and cabbage? Or, if you'd like something fancier, I might even be able to manage that. Not too fancy, of course—"

Toby's voice was regretful. "I'd like to Bill—but I'm afraid I can't tonight."

"Some other boy friend ahead of me, huh? You're certainly getting to be a regular girl, Toby."

"I really do want to see you, Bill. Call me again, won't you?"

"Well, from where I'm sitting, it looks very much as though I would. And I hope I have better luck. So long, Toby."

"So long, Bill."

She put down the telephone. Harriet, busily mending her blouse, looked up. "Was that the Bill you introduced me to?" she asked. "The one we met on the street that day?"

"Yes, Bill Brandt."

"Tim. Nice sort of fellow. I thought if it wasn't for Clyde I might try to give you a little competition."

"Bill's one of the nicest people in the world," Toby assured her.

"Tim. There may have been an answer on the tip of Harriet's tongue, but if there was, she kept it to herself.

Clyde Sablin telephoned later and then arrived at the apartment. He wasn't at all the sort of person Toby had expected him to be. In the first place, he was older—well into the 30's, surely. From Toby's 19 that seemed middle-aged. Harriet was 22.

Sablin was tall and broad-shouldered and very well-tailored. Not at all handsome, but rather nice-looking. And he certainly tried to be pleasant. Toby thought perhaps he tried a little too hard. Maybe that was the reason she didn't feel at ease with him. She couldn't think of any other reason.

Sablin repeated Harriet's invitation for Toby to join them for the evening. "Let me call up Tom Garside," he said. "I know he'd be glad to come along. Tom's a nice fellow, too. You'll like him."

But Toby made it plain that she preferred to stay in, and when the others saw she meant it they gave up their urging.

They left finally and Toby went to the window and looked out. Dusk had settled over the street; in half an hour it would be dark. Already Manhattan's electrical splendor was in evidence, though Toby could not see it. Nearby buildings, bleak, unlighted, closed in about her. They assumed grotesque, menacing outlines.

Toby turned her back on them and walked from the window. Downstairs a radio had begun to play a tune she had often danced with Tim. The music was being broadcast from some place where there was gaiety and laughter, soft lights, couples dancing as she and Tim had danced.

A sudden sense of loneliness swept over her. Why had she insisted on remaining at home tonight? Why hadn't she gone out with Harriet and Clyde Sablin? Or with Bill?

Yet she knew, even as she asked the question, why she had not gone. She was waiting to hear from Tim.

Firemen of Elgin Suspicious of the Neighboring Police

Elgin, Ill., April 2—(AP)—Firemen of station No. 1 were considering enlisting police aid today in seeking the solution to the "mystery of the missing pies."

They were good pies, nicely browned and filled with luscious berries, and the firemen baked them themselves. Some of the firefighters would just as soon bake a pie as squelch a blaze.

The pies—four of them—were placed on a second floor window ledge to cool for yesterday's dinner. Dinner time came but the pies had gone.

So today the firemen considering appealing to the police, but only considering—because the police are quartered in the adjoining city hall, just across from the ledge where the pies once were.

PWA MATERIAL EXPERT TALKS ABOUT LADDER

Intimates Plank in Hauptmann's Attic Was "Planted"

Washington, April 2—(AP)—Arch W. Loney, PWA materials expert, said today he had urged Governor Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey to investigate the origin of the board from which part of the Lindbergh kidnapping ladder reportedly was made.

Loney said a carpenter named Boyer had told him that a 20 foot board was bought from the National Lumber Company—the Bronx firm which had sold lumber to Bruno Richard Hauptmann—a week after Hauptmann's arrest.

"It looks like somebody bought the board and put it in Hauptmann's home," Loney, who last week accompanied the governor on an inspection trip, told newsmen.

Loney said Hoffman telephoned here about 4:30 yesterday afternoon to ask if he had any additional suggestions beyond his previous report.

Urged Investigation
"I told the governor," Loney said "he ought to investigate whether a 20-foot board, 1 by 6 inches, was bought from the National Lumber Company. He said he would."

The state had contended that the famous "rail 16" of the kidnap ladder was made from a section of a board in Hauptmann's attic. Loney said the section of the ladder is 6 feet 6 inches, and the remaining part of the board is now 13 feet.

He added that he became interested in the origin of the board because from the construction of the attic he had not expected to find one. On one side, he said, there were 13 tongue and groove boards. He added that on the other side there also were 13 plus the short-ended board.

Says He Was Threatened
Further, Loney said, the tongue and groove portion would have been damaged had it actually been ripped out of the attic flooring as contended by the state.

Loney said Attorney General David Wilentz of New Jersey, who prosecuted Hauptmann, had "threatened to embarrass me" during the visit to Hauptmann's home by disclosing details of the failure of a lumber company in which Loney had been interested.

"I told him to crack down," Loney said.

Loney added that if Hoffman "urged" him, he would renew his investigation of the case. He already had been authorized by Secretary Ickes, his superior, to take whatever "unofficial action" he desired.

NO RECORD OF SALE

New York, April 2—(AP)—The manager of the National Mill Work Lumber Corporation said today it had no record of the purchase of a 20-foot board a week after the arrest of Bruno Hauptmann.

The manager, Arthur Hirsch, said it would be a physical impossibility to check the records of the company concerning a statement made by Arch W. Loney, PWA materials expert, who has been assisting Governor Harold Hoffman in his investigation into the Hauptmann case.

In Washington Loney said he understood the board had been purchased from the lumber company, the same firm which sold lumber to Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a week after his arrest and suggested that someone bought the board and put it in Hauptmann's home. Loney has been investigating the ladder used in the kidnapping.

"I wouldn't know anything about it," Hirsch said.

"HOT SPOT" FIRE GRENADES

Guards Lives and of Day and Night $2.50

Each

The operation of "Hot Spots" is as simple as a-b-c. The grenade rack hangs on the wall from a fusible link... the link melts at 165 degrees Fahrenheit... the rack drops to the floor and the grenade breaks. The carbon tetrachloride is liberated, vaporized by the heat, drawn to the fire by the natural draft of hot air, and then smothers out the flames like a blanket by shutting off the supply of oxygen. These "Hot Spots" are equally effective when used as hand extinguishers and thrown at the base of the flames.

Many Local Homes Have Been Saved from Destruction by Their Use.

Chief Wm. B. Mitchell of the Fire Department states the following:

I have used Carbon Tetrachloride effectively at the Fire Department and recommend it.

Planting

IN DIGGING your ground, go deep. The aeration and breaking up is of inestimable value to your garden. Proper preparation of the soil means deep-rooted plants. Do not, however, go below the good soil level.

THE HOUSE is the one permanent part of your home property. All of the trees and such other plantings should be placed so as to make a desirable picture as a whole. The picture can be spoiled as easily by too much as too little growth.

INSTEAD OF USING labels, make a map of your garden. Indicate the perennials and fill in around them with annuals. The map will be useful when you are planning next year's garden.

WITH ROCK GARDENS, avoid making it look like an exhibition area. The most attractive rock gardens are natural to the extreme and look as though they "just happened."

PLANT LITTLE GROUPS of five or six gladioli through your garden. Do this in May or June as you find little unexpected bare spots in your garden.

IF YOU ALLOW the exposed roots of your plants and shrubs to become dry they will inevitably die. If you cannot set them out as soon as received, be sure that they are kept well watered.

PROPER FOUNDATION planting is very important for it can make the small house look larger and soften the bigness of the large house.

SOME FARMERS follow the fruit trees for time of planting. When the peach buds begin to swell plant peas, radishes, lettuce, onion sets, carrots and turnips.

WHEN THE apple blossoms begin to come out, plant corn, beans, pumpkins, melons and squash. When the petals fall plant tomatoes, peppers and eggplants.

THE BEST TIME to transplant Lilacs is in the fall. Do not let your Lilacs blossom the first year after transplanting. Pick off the flower buds and they will flower much better later on.
